Manufacturing and distribution companies face many economic challenges – and now international pressures with technology removing traditional borders – that often compromise competitive advantages. Partnering with advisors who have in-depth manufacturing and distribution experience can help your business strengthen its position in the marketplace.

CRI's manufacturing and distribution CPAs and advisors focus on helping clients streamline operations to boost efficiency and profitability. Our team provides a broad range of services – including financial statement audits, client accounting services (from bookkeeping to payroll), business valuations, and benefit plan audits. CRI also delivers tax compliance and planning services, and we often advise manufacturers and distributors regarding industry-specific tax incentives that can help minimize tax burdens.

We pride ourselves on using cutting-edge technology to offer clients greater flexibility with their time and resources. For instance, the CRI virtual Smart Tech Audits & Reviews (vSTAR)™ process enables us to conduct virtual audit engagements in real-time. Because we record engagement sessions and audit evidence, clients can spend less time training CRI staff and more time on other business priorities.

Benefit from our manufacturing- and distribution-specific services including:

- Cost Accounting Systems. Our specialists work with key accounting and production personnel to develop cost accounting systems that effectively track cost variances and manage performance.
- Inventory Control Procedures. We help you implement internal controls (e.g., perimeter access controls, tracking software) designed to accurately monitor inventory and accumulated costs.
