

CRI's Commercial Real Estate team is with you through the long-haul of your investment.

Why CRI?

CRI's commercial real estate group provides a comprehensive approach utilizing its expertise in both tax and assurance-based services to advise institutional, private equity, and closely held real estate investors. While annual federal and state compliance will always be necessary, efficient ownership structuring and up-to-date understanding of the changing tax code are keys to strategizing the lifecycle of any investment. Our assurance-based services include audits, reviews, compilations, and similar financial reporting requirements, as well as agreed-upon procedures and consulting engagements tailored to address specific client needs. These services, combined with CRI's cost segregation and Section 179D studies and consulting and compliance services for qualified-opportunity zones, low-income housing credits, and historic tax credits, amount to a collaborative environment focused on identification, communication, and effective execution for your investments.
