CRI helps advise your team when it really counts.

Why CRI?

Sometimes good people and good companies encounter tough situations such as broken contracts or post-acquisition disputes. Other times, business partners, individuals, companies, or consumers have different views of the same set of facts. When these challenging predicaments arise, having a proven, credible partner to assist with disputes is paramount to protecting your business. CRI's multifaceted team possesses expertise and experience in areas such as tax, accounting, auditing, forensics, and business valuations. Our professionals work with your legal team during the litigation process to offer an objective perspective to the forensic side of your numbers.
