

Helping your business maintain compliance one state at a time.

Why CRI?

In an age where safeguarding your data is becoming more and more difficult, businesses must also stay abreast of changing privacy laws required by the states in which they operate. With a domino effect that started after California passed its Consumer Privacy Act, an increasingly large number of states have started to follow suit. In order to remain compliant, privacy assessments have now just become a normal part of doing business. At CRI, our data security professionals bring a fresh perspective to the table and work to help your organization identify and minimize risk, remediate potential vulnerabilities, and maintain compliance. Our Certified Data Privacy Security Engineers (CDPSE) assess your data storage to determine the best path forward to complete a privacy assessment that complies with specific state guidelines and requirements.
